League Says Good-Bye to Stan Dinkelman

Long-Time Volunteer, Board
Member Passes Away Dec. 5

Stan Dinkelman

The League of Human Dignity is sad to announce that Stan Dinkelman, 70, longtime League Board of Directors Chairman, died Wednesday, Dec. 5, in Lincoln.

Stan, a York resident, was a graduate of McCool Junction High School and Milford Trade School. Stan worked in the construction industry until about 1970, when an auto accident left him quadriplegic. He dedicated the remainder of his life to promoting independent living for people with disabilities.

Stan helped found the York Chapter of the League of Human Dignity in 1984 and became chapter president in 1986. He also became a member of the League's Board of Directors in 1986, and he served as board chairman since 2000.

In his work with the League, Stan also had been an information and referral provider, and peer mentor in the York area. He was a tireless advocate for the League and the independent living movement.

Stan was a staunch advocate for people with disabilities, and lived independent living each and every day.

"Stan provided steady and thoughtful volunteer leadership to the League of Human Dignity for 35 years," said League Co-CEO Mike Schafer. "Stan was a staunch advocate for people with disabilities, and lived independent living each and every day."

Stan was awarded the League's Ken Lindhorst Volunteer of the Year Award twice during his tenure with the League, in 1990 and 2015.

Stan was a member of Emmanuel Lutheran Church in York.

He is survived by an aunt, Norma Hinze of Seward; several cousins, and by his caregiver, Leigh Qubty. He was preceded in death by his parents, Paul and Pauline Hinze Dinkelman.

Burial was in York's Greenwood cemetery.

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a landmark bill signed into law by George H.W. Bush on July 26, 1990, prohibiting discrimination based on disability. Usually, we give recognition to this monumental piece of legislation in July, but this newsletter article is about the president who signed the ADA into law.

George H. W. Bush, the 41st president of the United States, died on Nov. 30, 2018, at age 94.

As a young man, Bush postponed his university studies after the attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, and enlisted in the Navy on his 18th birthday. He became one of its youngest aviators, serving until September 1945. He then attended Yale University, graduating in 1948. He moved his family to West Texas, where he entered the oil business and became a millionaire by the age of 40. Bush was defeated in his first run for the U.S. Senate in 1964, but won election to the House of Representatives from the Texas 7th Congressional District in 1966. He was reelected in 1968, but was defeated in another Senate bid in 1970. In 1971, President Richard Nixon appointed Bush as Ambassador to the United Nations, and he became Chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1973. The following year, President Gerald Ford appointed him Chief of the Liaison Office in China and later made him director of the CIA.

Bush ran for president in 1980, and was defeated in the Republican primary by Ronald Reagan. But as Reagan's running mate, he was elected vice-president that year. Over the next eight years, Bush headed task forces on deregulation and the war on drugs.

In 1988, Bush defeated Democrat Michael Dukakis to become the first incumbent vice president in 152 years to become president. During his term, the United States conducted military operations in Panama and the Persian Gulf. The Berlin Wall fell in 1989, and the Soviet Union dissolved two years later. Bush also signed the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), creating a trade bloc consisting of the United States, Canada, and Mexico. But reneging on a 1988 campaign promise by signing a tax increase bill cost him the 1992 election against Democrat Bill Clinton.

The former president had a disability himself — he had a form of Parkinson's disease and was hospitalized periodically in his later years with pneumonia.

Bush used a service dog, named Sully. Sully was well trained to support him in his daily activities, and the pair quickly became close pals. The dog performed a two-page list of commands, including answering the phone and fetching items, according to a CNN story.

"As one person said, he can do just about anything except make you a martini, but not to worry, he can go get you someone to make you a martini," Bush spokesman Jim McGrath said last June.

Bush was praised as a hero by, among others, John Miller, president and CEO of The Guide Dog Foundation and America's VetDogs

"As a true patriot and visionary, President Bush will forever be viewed by people with disabilities and their families as a hero through his efforts to enact the Americans with Disabilities Act. We are forever grateful to his service to the American people," Miller said

Obviously, President Bush had many accomplishments during his long record of public service. But to the League of Human Dignity, his support of the ADA is among his finest! So this column is in celebration of President George H. W. Bush and his legacy in the Independent Living Movement. Thank you Mr. President, and Rest in Peace.

Here are a few of Bush's best-loved quotes:

On doing what is right:

"No generation can escape history."

On teamwork

"In crucial things, unity. In important things, diversity. In all things, generosity."

On his legacy:

"History will point out some of the things I did wrong and some of the things I did right."

On America:

"America is never wholly herself unless she is engaged in high moral principle. We as a people have such a purpose today. It is to make kinder the face of the nation and gentler the face of the world."

Diabetes Alert Day Set for March 26

One in three Americans is at risk for developing type 2 diabetes, The American Diabetes Association reports.

Diabetes is a serious disease that can cause complications like kidney disease, blindness, and amputations. It affects about 30.3 million Americans, or just over 9 percent of the U.S. population, and nearly one in four adults who have it

(7.2 million people) are unaware that they have it. Another 84.1 million Americans have prediabetes — elevated blood glucose levels not high enough to be diagnosed as diabetes — and nine out of 10 adults with prediabetes don't know they have it.

But type 2 diabetes isn't inevitable and it doesn't have to be permanent — the disease can be prevented or delayed with healthy lifestyle modifications.

Diabetes Alert Day, sponsored by the American Diabetes Association, is the last Tuesday of March each year, and is meant to focus attention on combatting the disease.

This year, it's observed on March 26. The association encourages everyone to take the Type 2 Diabetes Risk Test and participate in activities that teach them how to reverse the risk for diabetes. Take the test online or download a paper version at www.diabetes.org/are-you-at-risk/diabetes-risk-test/

New Works Added to League Art Installation

Visit the League's Lincoln offices at 1701 P Street and check out the latest works in our ongoing Art Show.

The showing, courtesy of Dean Settle and his Metro Gallery in Lincoln, features works by Nebraska artists, many of whom have disabilities. All the pieces are for sale and the public is invited to come in and check them out.

The League began hosting the art exhibit in the summer of 2015. Metro Gallery, at 1316 N St., in Lincoln, is home to a rich collection of works by artists with disabilities.

Many of the gallery's works of art — about 15 percent — are classified as outsider art, created by artists who are self-taught and not conventionally trained.

Mr. Settle worked for 51 years as an administrator of programs and organizations that serve people with disabilities. He retired in 2012 after 14 years as director of Community Mental Health Center. The organization "Artists on the Edge" began there in 1999.

Organizations Plan National Conventions

National Council on Independent Living

The Independent Living Movement ignites action and empowerment.

With that in mind, the theme of the 2019 Annual Conference on Independent Living is IGNITE.

The conference is July 22 through 25, at the Grand Hyatt in Washington, D.C.

“The Independent Living Movement ignites action and empowerment,” says the National Council on Independent Living (NCIL) announcement of this year’s theme. “We are not a sedentary bunch. When there is work to be done, we do it. When bad policy threatens our independence and rights, we react. When we know we have a better way, we take action to influence policy and pass laws. We are organized, we are powerful, and we know what we want. All it takes is a spark!”

NCIL’s Annual Conference is the largest Independent Living event of the year. NCIL regularly hosts over 1,000 people, including advocates, CIL and SILC leaders, members of Congress, government officials, and representatives from other organizations working for justice and equity for people with disabilities.

For more information about this year’s conference, visit the NCIL website at www.ncil.org.

National ADA Symposium

This year’s National ADA Symposium is June 16 through 19, at the Gaylord Texan Resort in Grapevine, Texas.

The annual four-day conference is the largest conference on the Americans with Disabilities Act and the source for latest information on regulations and guidelines, implementation strategies, and best practices related to the ADA. Presenters include nationally recognized representatives of agencies and organizations that are involved with the ADA.

This year marks the 28th anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act and the 22nd annual ADA Symposium.

The symposium consists of a pre-conference session Sunday afternoon, May 14, break-out sessions, advanced discussion groups, exhibits and hands-on learning activities. The event is coordinated and hosted by the Great Plains ADA Center, based in Columbia, Mo.

Registration is $750 through May 17, and $900 after that.

For more information about the symposium, or to register, call Lisa Tucker at 352-669-0076, email Tuckerli@missouri.edu or register online at www.adasymposium.org.

New Medicare Cards Part of Fight Against Fraud, Abuse

CMS Completes Distribution Ahead of Schedule

The federal agency in charge of Medicare has finished issuing new Medicare cards to more than 61 million beneficiaries.

The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) completed the job three months ahead of schedule, providing new cards that do not include Social Security numbers. The cards are part of the agency's effort to protect beneficiaries' identities and reduce fraud and abuse.

"Safeguarding our beneficiaries' personal information continues to be one of our top priorities," said CMS Administrator Seema Verma. "The Trump Administration is committed to modernizing Medicare and has expedited this process to ensure the protection of Medicare beneficiaries and taxpayer dollars from the potential for fraud and abuse due to personal information that existed on the old cards."

CMS began mailing the new Medicare cards in April 2018. Each card features a unique, randomly-assigned Medicare number known as a Medicare Beneficiary Identifier (MBI). The MBI is a combination of letters and numbers that help protect against personal identity theft and fraud. Congress set an April 2019 deadline for the card replacement project as part of the Medicare Access and CHIP Reauthorization Act (MACRA) of 2015.

More than half of healthcare claims CMS is processing now include the new MBI, demonstrating a smooth transition to the new cards, CMS officials said.
